

Identifying Peer Review Articles

When conducting research, you need to know how to find peer-reviewed academic journal articles. Not all articles in academic journals are peer-reviewed.

Library Peer-Review Feature

Use a library database with a "peer-review" feature. Most databases let you filter your search results to "peer-reviewed" or "refereed" articles.

Journal Website

Check the journal's web page. There should be a statement indicating that the journal publishes "peer-reviewed" or "refereed" articles.

Ulrichsweb Global Serials Directory

Search for the journal title that the article was published in. Check for the "Refereed" icon.

Click here to access Ulrich's